Recent Dove House Events In honor of Domestic Violence Survivors

A Night At The Café

On the lovely fall evening of Saturday, October 7th, the Dove House Board hosted a full house of dinner guests at our Recovery Café. Attendees enjoyed small bites catered by Port Townsend Catering Co.

and music provided by Recovery Café Volunteers. A person who had received services from Dove House presented a beautiful summary of the way that Dove House’s advocacy services and the programs and resources at our Recovery Café work together to support healing, hope, and rebuilding for victims.

“And So I Stayed”

In partnership with Port Townsend Film Festival, Dove House screened “And So I Stayed” - the story of how the legal system gets domestic violence wrong - on October 12th. The film follows the stories of survivors of domestic violence who are convicted of assaulting and/or killing their abusers. While a new law provides for more legal latitude in domestic violence cases, it is still very difficult to overcome stereotypes surrounding the circumstances in which victims remain with their abusers and end up committing acts of assault or homicide. Community members in attendance engaged in a lively discussion with Dove House staff and board members following the screening.

This event was sponsored by Kristin Manwaring Insurance.

Why Purple?

The color purple became associated with the strength of women in the United States who fought to gain the right to vote in the early part of the 20th century. In July 1978, more than 100,000 women marched on Washington, D.C. in support of equal rights, and many of them wore purple and lavender to make a stronger visual impact as they assembled in support of their cause. Purple is the color chosen to represent Domestic Violence Awareness Month. It symbolizes survival, courage, and peace and honors the lives of those who have been hurt by physical and emotional abuse and the survivors who go on to thrive and live a life free of violence.
